

WHY DID ZULF FLIP-FLOP ON HILLARY CLINTON?

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I will be quite honest. I did not like Hillary Clinton at all after she voted for the Iraq war. I was in the International Socialist Organisation in San Francisco during the Iraq war, and we got together and decided that we were against Democrats as well as Republicans. So I was going against Hillary Clinton for years and years. I was more for Bernie Sanders, because he was okay on Iraq war and la dee da and I'm loving to get riled up against Hillary Clinton etc. and suddenly I heard Donald Trump's rhetoric and suddenly I decided that my scope was just too narrow and compared to Donald Trump, Hillary Clinton was the girl next door cousin type for me and then I decided to love Hillary Clinton scared out of my wits. Hillary Clinton is actually closer to me politically, believe it or not, than Donald Trump and his cadre. That's a cold shower, let me tell you, when you find out that the people who you thought were the most morally depraved despicable people who literally voted for the Iraq war were not as bad as a lot of the country. When I was young this would be such an outrageous compromise that I would be afraid of showing my face to the public out of shame. But now my shame has just about totally been burned off. I won't go into it, but I'm in such a state that shame comes to me like a constipated man. Shame is a luxury these days for Zulfikar Moinuddin Ahmed. You won't be finding me doing hara-kiri for almost anything at all any more. Once upon a time, I was driven by shame and honour. Those days are long gone. Now you'd have to squeeze really hard like an almost spent toothpaste tube to get a little bit of shame out of me. Things do change for Zulf. Anyway, I'm cool with Hillary Clinton now. Not that she would care. She's flying high in the clouds with all sorts of Husbands who were Presidents and who were almost themselves Presidents. Now I am an Eternal Genius, so that's something, and I am not directly involved in National Politics which is good. It's good because I can still without any shame – well I covered that one already – dismissively wave my hands at these little Nation States and get away with it. One of the few privileges of this sort of thing. And believe me, I do wave my hands dismissively at these little Nation States a lot these days. See, wave wave wave "ah, these little Nation States". No I don't make a contemptuous snort with that; that would be uncouth and unrefined.

Now let me show you how the wave works. You need to extend your arms a bit to the side not even looking at the direction and the thumb needs to be a bit high and then the wave is with the four fingers downward. Now don't get confused and do the wrong sort of wave which is a different thing, which is saying hello to a sweetheart.

After a long time of practicing these little Nation States you will reach a higher state of awareness, where the nation states are pretty these little. Avoid revealing this to any nationalist types. They get rather agitated and do not understand that their little way of looking at the world is their limitation and does not apply to you at all.
