

A CANONICAL SCIENCE-BACKED INTERPRETATION OF UNITED STATES DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE PREAMBLE

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

1. INTRODUCTION

In this note I will carry out a precise interpretation of United States Declaration Preamble. I will employ strongly established consensus scientific views here about our knowledge of human molecular genetics. Then I will employ clear deductive reasoning.

In a later section I will apply the reasoning to my own status as an American and consequences in my relationship to United States Government.

2. MY EDUCATIONAL AND PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

I graduated magna cum laude from Princeton University in 1995 with an AB in Mathematics and the prize for most original senior thesis in Mathematics. I have professional background in Finance, Science, and Technology. I do not have any formal education in law at all.

3. THE PREAMBLE OF UNITED STATES DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, —That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed.

4. LOGICAL DEDUCTIONS FROM EXACT TEXT: PURPOSE OF UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

The exact wording is the following: "That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Here there is a remarkable lack of ambiguity that the sole purpose of existence of United States Government is 'to secure these rights' for all American people. Empirically today they amount to 330 million Americans. I am an American, and therefore the purpose of United States Government is, according to US Declaration which is part of US Constitution, to secure my Natural Rights of Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness. This is a logical deduction from the propositions that are stated explicitly.

For didactic purposes, we can note that the founding charter of United States of America, using the Voice of the American People – which is the "We" of the US Declaration Preamble – do not leave any doubts about the sole purpose for the existence of the United States Government. There is no other purpose to the United States Government. For example, the purpose of US Government is not to oversee the US Economy, or to cater to very wealthy Americans at the expense of less wealthy Americans. The sole purpose of US Government is to secure Natural Rights of all Americans. I will establish later that I am myself an American, and therefore it is not merely a task but a fundamental purpose of existence of US Government to secure my Natural Rights. [1]

5. SCIENTIFIC SUPPORT FOR 'CREATED EQUAL' CLAUSE

We know with strong scientific consensus some facts about the human genome. The important and uncontroversial fact known today by science is that the human genome has roughly 6 billion base pairs of DNA. Across the globe all human beings have exactly the same DNA with variations on 0.1% snips. Now consider a fertilised human egg that has now new genetic code for the offspring in its cells. We can easily deduce that modulo 0.1% of the snips they are actually identical. As a thought experiment we can imagine swapping any fertilised egg in one mother's womb to another, and both will produce growth of the fetus without problems.

We use this strong consensus scientific fact now to support scientifically the statement 'all men are created equal'. We expand 'men' to include female humans. Then we note that the scientific inference applies to all human beings everywhere – i.e. independent of ethnicity, location, and other demographic data. The United States Declaration's self-evident truth is thus supported by very well understood facts of human genetics that are known today.

6. IMPORTANCE OF 'CREATED'

The precise word used by the authors of US Declaration Preamble is that 'all men are created equal'. Our scientific backing uses fertilised eggs to argue for equality. In other words we are strongly supporting the US Declaration Preamble as having strong scientific support. Naturally 'all' is absolutely universal and includes all fertilised eggs of all human race across the globe.

7. ALL ETHNIC AND RACIAL INTERPRETATIONS OF US DECLARATION PREAMBLE FALSE

One deduction that is obvious is that the above analysis is independent of ethnic, racial, and other divisive feature of human race, and we can safely conclude that the charter of the United States includes equality of all people in the world as 'created equal' via Voice of the American People. This document is part of our Constitution, and therefore divergent views from 'all men are created equal' are false and have no support from our foundational Constitution.

8. DISAGREEMENT IS ANTI-AMERICAN

United States is a Multi-Ethnic Classical Liberal Democratic Republic. Therefore American-ness is defined canonically in the acceptance of a person in American soil to the US Declaration Preamble. If there are going to be degrees of "American-ness" the purest is those whose political convictions are in perfect agreement with all the features of US Declaration Preamble and not by other criteria.

9. ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED IS AMERICAN

My own convictions are in absolute concordance with the specific interpretation I offered in this note. This is what makes me a pure American. Now historically I immigrated to America in 1987, and I obtained Permanent Residency in 1997 and these papers expire in 2031. Permanent Residency is pathway to Naturalisation to US Citizen. I could have applied for US Citizenship in 1997 and obtained it by 1999. From any substantial view, I am formally and by deep convictions American.
