

US GOVERNMENT EXECUTIVE BRANCH SOME KEY ISSUES

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

Dear US Executive Branch,

You have a lot of people in the government and you have a lot of business people you know that are prominent. That seems like a world unto itself. So you might think that you are very public and doing the right thing. But this is delusional. You see, 330 million people is so much larger than you can even grasp, really, that even though you might think you are as public as possible, you are essentially a totally isolated cult compared to the ordinary American man like myself. I am not a government man in America, so I have no clue what you are doing. I do know, however, that your existence is to secure my Natural Rights and that of 330 million other fellow Americans.

You serve the American People, and you ought to feel that government disclosure is important. American People in 2021 are 30% college educated and 100% literate, and we are not peasants from the Early Medieval Europe. We do not appreciate it when Executive Branch does not enforce laws. That is an existential danger for you, because when we are surprised that you have not been executing laws, our rage is tremendous because we do want to trust you, and you are found unworthy of our trust when it is found that you did not enforce laws. You can think all you want that no one will notice but we will notice, and when you hide the knowledge of crimes of people like Bill Gates and not execute criminal laws for five decades, we will feel that you had malevolent intentions to put us in harm's way with malicious intent to hurt us. We are not wrong when we think this way because it is a reasonable thing to suspect. Why would you hide things we needed to know for our well-being such as who is a dangerous criminal murderer and who is not. Not revealing such things does not prolong your careers because when we think you do not wish us well but are hiding from us things that we need to know for our self-interest, we are not motivated to pay taxes. You understand this?

Please never again hide from public things that you know. We are forgiving if you tell us that you have found out about all sorts of things but are unable to yet bring him to justice, for example. But we will not be forgiving if you hide from us the crimes you knew about because that is just totally malicious disregard for us, and you serve our interests. You are the government of the people by the people and for the people. Please be more respectful of American people. We give you your livelihood from our own hard work. You should not suddenly get bamboozled with some charlatan with money and suddenly pretend that you are his subjects. We did not go through all the bloody wars for the past centuries for such a tacky horrible dishonourable conduct from our Executive Branch.
