

TOTAL UNACCEPTABILITY OF "WE DIDN'T KNOW" EXCUSE FROM US GOVERNMENT AGENCIES

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I tire of US Government Agencies repeatedly attempt the ignorance excuse when crimes of Bill Gates are discovered. United States extracts a very substantial part of the American People's income from all that we do to earn any living. Europe's taxes are higher in percentage, but European governments do not go around responding to every single thing with "we didn't know". What does the US Government do with our money if they don't know simple things? Why don't they do their job and keep track of things in the first place. They are not exactly lacking in resources. There are both domestic and international intelligence agencies. Why don't they share information they know? Why do every US Government Consider not know what the previous group had discovered. Ignorance in a developing nation with problems in their economy is pardonable, but United States is the wealthiest nation in the world. Why do we have Government Agencies and officials with glib "We didn't know" at all? What does the US Government do with huge amounts of tax money if they don't clear up elementary issues of shared knowledge.

Bill Gates literally lied about me having forged papers to senior US Government officials and instead of simply checking with USCIS they acted on Bill Gates word. That is dysfunctional for operation of a 2.1 million organisation tasked to secure Natural Rights of 330 million Americans and it is totally unacceptable. If you do not know elementary things why do you get paid money for a living? We can pay our taxes to people who do their job and know things.
