

PORNOGRAPHY, PROSTITUTION, AND FILMS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I want in this note to point out that Pornography is nothing particularly harmful and is just like any other films. I do not believe they are harmful to anyone and ought to be strictly separated from actual sex.

Pornography is just stimulation from a movie. It's completely different from prostitution because actual physical sex has 4 million years of physical body evolution that is triggered and I do think this degrades psychological health of men. Pornography ought to be regulated and kept separated from actual sexual acts. We don't think violent thrillers with a lot of bloodshed is problematic. I don't think we should think pornography is problematic either, and in the same way.

I don't like prostitution at all. Most people on Earth dislike it. There is a world of a difference between a fantastic thing, a movie, and reality. I watch war films and they have huge numbers of horrible deaths and do not get any urge to guy some hardware and take my neighborhood down. People who think men watching pornography are going to turn into monstrous rapists or whatever are very stupid morons. Those things do not happen. Pornography stimulates some parts of our lust system. There are varieties of quality of porn. I use it for relaxation especially when I am single. This is good because I have very strict selection criteria and it's better for me not to lower them for sexual entertainment. I don't need to preserve any macho image.
