

ZULF'S PERSONAL NOTE ABOUT ETHNIC PRIDE

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I am an honest man, and I have repented for all my sins already. I am not Christian, so take my use of 'sins' as linguistic. I have shoplifted small items twice in my 48 years. Once a Cadbury chocolate bar in 1995 and again a pack of tarot card in 2008 from Barnes & Nobles. It was never a habit for me, but a matter of immature notion of fun that I had not outgrown, and I have never again stolen anyone else's things. I had given up all my material possessions in 2008, and I am still alive today thirteen years later, not frozen to death homeless in New York. Still alive and thinking about Virtues as a salvation of universal human nature these days.

I am Bengali-Persian ethnic; Asian-American. These things mean a great deal more for people living in Bengal and Persia, I think, than they mean for me. I have lived among Americans, mostly white, people, all my life, and my development is Western.

I rememeber in the period in 1987-1991 I was in New York in a basement apartment. I did not like the light at all. I shared my room with my brother. He was talented in music already, and could play Chopin's Revolutionary Etude well enough to impress people. He loved Stendhal's Crimson and Black, and also the essays of Michel Montaigne. I had different tastes. I loved Fyodor Dostoevsky, and the English Romantics. I was much more internal. I went to Number Theory camps in Ohio State University and he to more creative humanist type camps.

I do have some ethnic pride, but it is not particularly overwhelming. I take pride in aristocratic lineage of three thousand years. I spent some time reading Asia Before Europe of K. N. Chaudhari after I graduated Princeton in 1995. For me there is some value in that, because although my cultivation is Western, and my values are more European than Eastern, in my mind, the entire human race and Civilisation is East-heavy. In the long millions of years of human history, thousands of years of Civilisations had developed in the East before Europe. And so, to the extent I see the depths of historical roots within me, I will obviously show some ethnic pride.

I write this note on November 10, 2021. And in my meta, the intolerable and worthless Bill Gates is repeating his 'whites are superior. whites are superior.' It's very strange for me. I have known so many good white people in my life, friends, benefactors, men and women who I consider with love and admiration. None of them ever kept repeating like an imbecilic parrot 'whites are superior. whites are superior'. I did not encounter anyone more vile, low, and unworthy in any ethnicity at all as Bill Gates, and he does this. I implore all good and just white people in America to eliminate this man, your shame and your embarrassment. Your ethnic pride is tarnished when you allow these sorts of savage monsters any place in you societies.

Date: November 10, 2021.

1. I HAVE RARELY HAD ANY CONFLICT WITH ANY WHITE PERSON IN 34
YEARS

In 34 years of American Life, I have had physical conflict of anyone at all with a single black man, who punched me in the face and I had bleeding in my right eye. That was when I was homeless in New York. I never sought his arrest in the end. He punched me because a car parked right from where we slept in Union Square Theater had a very loud conversation and I was yelling at them to please take it elsewhere because people were sleeping. He got scared that they might have guns.

I have never mistreated or been in conflict with any white man otherwise. I had a political credibility conflict in Biospect/Predicant in 2006 which I overcame in the end with some colleagues and I am fine with them now.

Bill Gates is the only man who is so horrible, savage, destructive, barbaric, and evil, that I felt compelled to seek his total annihilation as a matter of Conscience. It has little to do with my ethnic issues with white people. I don't have any anti-white sentiments otherwise.
