

ZULF PUTS HIMSELF SQUARELY IN THE GREAT STORY OF AMERICAN HISTORY ON RACE RELATIONSHIPS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I better quickly self-aggrandize myself really big before General Lloyd Austin grabs all the applauds of the Republic. I am fine with the General gaining great acclaim of course. Frankly, I need the man, but Zulf is Zulf and does not want to miss the opportunity to soak in some sun in the process.

Fine fine, General Austin and General Colin Powell and other black men have the right of way, because the black man has suffered terribly more in this country than me. Zulf was coddled by Lys Waltien, a white woman who is regarded with veneration by my family and who propelled me to Princeton. So it's really the black heroes who ought to be in the sun. But in this case I took the beating from Bill Gates and I bring a totally different feel to various racial issues than black men. You had Martin Luther King, who advocated Love and not Hate.

Fine fine, General Austin, you have a dream etc.

Let me see. Aha, I can outsnoot Bill Gates with all manner of my ancestors were contemplating the nature of the gods before yours and so on with an urban literate Civilisation.

Hold on. What looks good. You have all this deep wounds of oppression of the black man, the torture instruments. Fine that will win over my rather smaller affair where Bill Gates cut into my eyes and destroyed my interior.

It's all good, we'll split the difference. Janet Yellen you want in?
