

A NEW INTERPRETATION OF BILL GATES DISRUPTION OF MY LIFE

It is quite difficult for me to understand the irrational gibberish of Bill Gates but I realised that there might actually be rational sense in his actions. I am of course an Immortal Genius for my great achievement of Four-Sphere Theory. This implies that a thousand years from now in the future, and a million years from now in the future, Four-Sphere Theory will remain strong as the Final Theory of Physics down to atomic scales. Therefore my immortality is secure, and my life will be analysed by millions of people.

Bill Gates might have unconsciously realised that his menial and unenduring and trivial achievements will not even be remembered fifty years hence. And his natural desire to be immortal then led him to take suicidal actions to disrupt my life to gain space in my biography. It is quite clear that Bill Gates would be forgotten and irrelevant in a century for his achievements were truly trivial compared to mine.

Thus it is quite plausible that like a hungry child he disrupted my life with all manner of bad habits and malevolence in a desperate attempt to find a small corner in my biography which will certainly still be alive in a million years. This would finally make some sense for his disruptions with totally irrational gibberish racial theories and excuses.