

WHAT IS YOUR RADIUS OF PEOPLEHOOD?

yeah People, won't you listen now?
Sing along, oh

Led Zeppelin, "The Song Remains
The Same"

My Beloved People is the Human Race; that is 7.8 billion. I went to Princeton and traveled to South America, Europe, Asia, America, so for me this is not a great surprise. I consider all people to be my people, from London and Belfast to Tokyo and Beijing, Buenos Aires to Chicago, like the Song Remains the Same – California sunlight and sweet Calcutta rain.

But this is not the only way that exists. Some people are not like me. Let's take a look.

Eth	CloseWorld
Black	50.56
East Asian	33.98
Indian	43.45
Other	52.93
White	43.74

Around 45% of White people and Indians feel close to the world, and that's close to the average. I might then be a bit strange politically in considering all people to be my Beloved People but it's not strange given how almost half the people feel close to the world.

Let's see if this is very different in smaller radii. How about close to the country?

Eth	CloseCountry
Black	84.18
East Asian	81.14
Indian	87.86
Other	80.72
White	84.56

Date: June 26, 2021.

Interesting to note the remarkable regularity across all ethnicities and the mean is close to 83%. This is so remarkable that I suspect that radius of peoplehood has a genetic evolutionary basis in deep history human race going back millions of years. It is quite unlikely that this level of regularity was coerced at all.

So from these people's perspective, I am just a little too radical expanding my closeness to all people are my Beloved People.

How about really local closeness?

Eth	CloseTown
Black	82.77
East Asian	86.37
Indian	95.39
Other	84.56
White	88.74

That goes a bit higher to 85% or so. So that's pretty interesting, that the natural unit is really now the Nation. I believe that in the future World will become dominant because it's clear that human genetic capabilities favour this unity.

1. ETHNICITY INDEPENDENCE AND REGULARITY OF FEELING CLOSE TO REGIONS IS GENETIC IN CHARACTER

The remarkable regularity that we observe above, that ethnicity effects of feeling close to the world, the country and the town is so small, and the means are so regular implies a deep evolutionary explanation for this phenomena because almost no social or local coercion or political ideology or religion can have produced these. So this is a deep discovery about Universal Human Nature.

2. PRECISE ESTIMATES OF ETHNICITY EFFECTS

We aim here to provide a devastating blow to various racial supremacy theories here. How devastating would you like the blow to be. Already my previous work had restricted moral value variation due to ethnicity to a tiny sliver of 6.5-9.5% of total variation, leaving a puny real estate for racial supremacy by ethnicity. And now we can squeeze the racial supremacy theories even tighter until it yelps and cries out for help but to no avail.

The first let us calculate the actual standard deviations of the three classes of closeness across ethnicities.

	close	sigma
1	world	7.40
2	country	2.90
3	town	4.90

So now in addition to moral values, ethnicity effects of feeling closeness to radius of peoplehood across ethnicities have variation contained within 7.5%. Racial supremacist theories now have to find some quite strange positions to be very different in their closeness by radius of peoplehood than other ethnicities. What are they going to do now, huh? One by one their fictions will seem quite absurd. They will have to find something more interesting than painting their faces and behaving bestially in various black and white films to get past my barriers here.
