

ZULF CLAIMS I COULD BE A SERIOUS THREAT TO ALL LEADERS OF THE WORLD IN SEVERAL YEARS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

In local National politics, I am not as good as many people. But if, counterfactually, there were a single global Democracy, I would easily be a contender for global Presidency beating both Joe Biden and Xi Jinping and all the various popular officials in all countries. I do have the skills to do that. It would take some years of sharpening my campaign but I would win the entire global vote in landslide against the current leaders. Why? I have natural universalism within me, so my rhetoric is universal genuinely, and I have several thousand years of aristocratic lineage and my father was dedicated to the service of Bengali people all his life. Those things give me a natural edge against local politicians. They are to me specialists of local interests. And so they are stronger than me but their appeal to global public cannot possibly match mine. They don't have the mindset to compete globally with me. Even Barack Obama cannot compete, and he's pretty good. I will admit that Barack Obama has some good skills here. But he cannot compete with me in a global Democratic election.
