

JUST HOW INCOMPETENT IS US EXECUTIVE BRANCH LET ME COUNT THE WAYS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

France and America are sister countries because we were both Republics from around the same time, the French Revolution. So let's just see how bad the US Executive Branch is compared to France.

Let's see if there are some excuses possible first. Population size. France is 66 million and we are 330 million. Fine so that's an excuse, bigger population, so we have more difficulty. But does this really provide an excuse?

Let's look at crime statistics because those tell you not just how people are but how the government is going about handling law enforcement.

First off, who the fuck puts age of criminal responsibility at 6? Why does the United States not change this to at least 13? That is just outrageously bad. That is just so primitive that it boggles the mind. If you start treating every toddler as a goddam criminal no wonder you fuck everything up. Change this immediately.

I just cannot believe this sort of thing. At six the kiddo can barely even understand the morality of not pooping without confusion in the potty and he or she can be hauled off to jail as a criminal while these murderous sons of bitches like Bill Gates keep murdering and murdering and murdering and murdering and murdering and killing and killing and raping and plundering all day and all night from 1970 to 2021 and the US Executive Branch does not touch them. Meanwhile, all the six year old boys who can't tell the difference between a hot babe and their mommy and need help pissing and are afraid of the dark and cats are all in jail for violating all sorts of littering in the park with their candy wrapper.

How does this country even work at all like this?

I will continue this comparison. What are they doing over there in the deep state, i.e. gigantic amount of money paid to people to execute nation's laws but who seem a little unclear about what they are doing.

1. RAPE RATE

Before you think rape rate is a problem of the rapist, you have to take a broader angle because raping people is not part of human nature at all. It's a stress to the human psyche, and so Executive Branch is definitely liable for the rate. Rape rates go up and down affected by government behaviour.

So what is the rape rate of the United States of America? It's 27.3 per 100,000 per year. That's not small at all. In France? 16.2. Both of these republics have much higher rape rates than Asian countries. India's rape rate is 1.8 and Japan's is 1. You have to understand, US Executive Branch, there is not any propensity to commit rapes at all in a healthy functioning human being. Stop blaming human nature for these. Start taking responsibility and doing things that are good decisions for extorting our tax money and getting paid and then leaving the country in such horrible state. What the hell are you doing all day? You can't enforce laws against some of the worst murderous sons of bitches like Bill Gates who are not doing anything valuable except murder and black magic and stealing and extorting pretending to be legitimate businessmen while you are doing everything possible to make life miserable for the American People. I have some research on various factors that lead to emotional dysfunctions that lead to rapes. White people have the highest rape rates of all ethnicities, so stop buying into all manner of white supremacist bullcrap. And it's not ethnic, by the way; it just happens that social conditions produce this particular sort of dysfunction. The root cause is a deprivation of social psychological needs.

Date: November 13, 2021.

Murder rate of United States is 5.0 and for France it is 1.31. That's embarrassing. Why is the murder rate so high in America? Yes, it's absurdly high. Don't blame black people. Do work. Fix it.

Fine, France has more assault victims 1.4% than America 1.2%.

Look, why don't you kill Bill Gates and his Co-Conspirators right away and get me my $620 million? I will set up something to address some of these massive social problems in America. Ok? Kill Bill Gates and his Co-Conspirators. Stop masturbating.