

WHAT IS A DEMON AND WHAT ABOUT BILL GATES IS HELLSPAWN ABOMINATION?

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

These are not pleasant matters frankly for me, but this is a matter of Conscience that I have learned enough that I have to demand that Bill Gates not only be killed but that his body be burned by fire in order not to spread the corruption of evil to the entire human race.

We are in a materialist phase of our Civilisation, so you have to understand what I understand with attention.

Let's start with Bill Gates DNA. Bill Gates has purely human genetic code. In other words, his mother, human, and father, human, copulates sometime in 1955 or 1954 and the sperm impregnates a human egg. The fertilised egg does indeed contain a copy of the appropriate mixture of DNA and so now you have Bill Gates genetic sequence g_{BG} that has 3 billion letter DNA code of A, C, T, G. This part is human.

But the way things work is what I call the Core Life – as a substitute for Soul – but it's a variant theory enters the fertilised egg and animates the fertilised egg. This is the Demon Soul, or more precisely his Core Life is a Demon's.

My Core Life is Archangel and his is Demon. Most people's I would guess is Angelic.

How can you determine who is what sort of soul? I don't know the answer generally, but I have used Moral Character as the indirect measure. But there is much more to an Abomination Hellspawn disgusting vile evil Demon, which is what I claim for Bill Gates. I will just tell you indirect measures because they are often sufficient.

I have previously argued that Bill Gates' moral character is rare on the evil side in human population. He is more vicious than 99.99999th percentile of the human race. I had used a sieve approach when examining abomination. These methods have the virtue that you can understand that it is in the Character where we can detect Angels and Demons incarnate. Human Race is Angelic and so 90-95% of humans will hold 'good' end of moral values for most morals, and perhaps 5-10% will have leanings towards bad or evil. Bill Gates is very evil. For example he is a pathological liar. That seems to be not the worst in the world but that is extremely important too. We know that 40% of Americans do not tell any lies per day. The rest follow an exponential distribution. Bill Gates lies all the time. I know that he planned to destroy me and he told high officials of American Government that I am not American and had forged papers. Then he proceeded to prepare to kill me and give credit for all my work to white people who were his lackeys. So those are acts of a vicious cat. In fact I am Asian-American and my USCIS# 046-077-179 Permanent Residency papers expire in 2031 and I have had this for 24 years. Lies are the first step to noticing a vicious cat. He lied about his own SAT score. It was 1290 but he projected 1590 for many decades. He says "natural rights are claptrap" but has interview with Steven Pinker and writes about how Enlightenment Now! is his favourite book of all times on the web. These contradictions are because he is a pathological liar.

Obviously lying is not a determinant of a Demon. Deceptive Demon is relevant. I have enough experience with him harming me personally that I definitely know that he is a Vile Evil Hellspawn Demon, an Abomination who needs to be killed and whose body needs to be burned in fire in order to stop spread of his Evil to all of Mankind.

1. FIRST FORMULATION OF CORE LIFE THEORY SEPTEMBER 29 2021

I will just refer to my note from September 29 2021 for a formulation of my Core Life Theory [?]. I'll reproduce it here.

ZULF ATTEMPTS TO DISTINGUISH ESSENTIAL SPIRITUAL LIFE FROM OTHER NOTIONS September 29, 2021 In Phaedo, Plato's (429-347 BC) Socrates identifies essential Self with Psyche or Soul. I want to try to delineate some things. I want to define something, let's call it Zulf's Life Core that is central to my world, and I will not equate it with Self at all. I believe the this Life Core is the thing that is alive, and that makes the human being alive, and it is not identical to Essential Self, Psyche, or Soul. This Life Core is what persists from before birth of a fetus and after death of the physical body, in the Four-Sphere Universe. This is absolutely essential to my understanding of existence. This Life Core is not Conscious, aware, but is the life in living body. This Life Core's properties include ability to exist as electromagnetic configuration (that is in theory but not in any experimental tests that I know) detectable. This Life Core has existed before any birth and after an death. I don't know about immortality, but mine has existed for billions of years in the past. I define this Life Core because it gains access to DNA machinery of the fetus, not in any conscious control sense but simply in the sense of making it come alive in the nutrient-rich environment of the womb. Then the growth of the fetus leads to growth of the brain, and then we are closer to normal biological realms. This is not just nomenclature; it is possible to say that a 20 year old man's Consciousness is still animated by the same Life Core as the one that appeared to animate his fetus, but the Consciousness has grown in the 20 years. The purpose of this is of course to make sense of my own history before birth and future after death. This seems not so important to many scientists but to me it is crucial. I separate the Life Core from the physical body and even machinery of Consciousness for clarity in analytical understanding that before it is animating a human fetus, it could have animated a purely electromagnetic living being with entirely different Consciousness. In my case I believe that whole infrastructure was abandoned by my Life Core which entered an impregnated egg in my mother's womb in 1973. The key benefit of this Life Core theory of mine is that it gives a different sense of separation of Life Core from Psyche and Soul. The Life Core animates the Consciousness along with the rest of the living human body, but it is not a Conscious substance by itself. Consciousness is animated by it. This resolves many paradoxes, since passions require some subcortical developments and so the Life Core does not have emotions that it can experience before the machinery grows for them. Life Core persists across births and deaths, but Consciousness is variable.

Justification 1: I was an Archangel with Archangel Consciousness before birth and will be again after death. It is my faith that I was an Archangel with entirely different magnetic monopole-based machinery for Consciousness before birth and will be again after death. My Life Core theory does not have any contradictions for my Human Consciousness is localised to my human life.

Justification 2: All men are created equal endowed with Natural Rights Consistency. Our DNA might differ a bit from one person to the next, but the genome is fixed for 99.9.

Difference from Plato's Soul. Since we have four-sphere theory, we can consider electromagnetic soul and that is analogous to 'immaterial' of Plato. Our Life Core exists before birth and after death as Plato's Soul. We do not insist on immortality of the Life Core but it is a parsimonious hypothesis. Now Consciousness is a more delicate issue for our concept of Life Core than Plato's Soul because we claim that Consciousness might change. We hypothesize, because we have Four-Sphere Theory, that there exist in the Four-Sphere Universe bodies composed of magnetic monopoles that are like biological human brains and capable of producing Consciousness that the Life Core can animate.

DNA Contain Evolutionary Adaptations that Enable All Human Capabilities. It was from Cosmides and Tooby's The Adapted Mind where I was compelled by their view that all human capabilities, of thought and emotions as well as all others are enabled by our evolutionary adaptations of our genetic code. It is foolish to consider this to be biological determinism, and this constraint is quite reasonable. There cannot be vaster freedoms for any human being to do anything that does not have evolutionary adaptations that combine to allow it. Our Life Core theory does not disturb — during our human life from birth to death — the adaptations. We can interpret it as Life Core animating growth of the organism including all the proteins coded by genetic code. Then Soul and Psyche, and Self as well, is a larger holistic interpretation of the individual. I actually believe that my theory is the actual truth. But that may not matter for those assessing it versus other theories. Against other theories, this has the merit allowing existence of Life Core across birth and death, which is important for religious thought and it is quite palatable to the evolutionary psychologists and biologists, because the growth of the human biological organism as a function of genetic code is left undisturbed.

Panksepp's Seven Emotional Systems in Mammals and Humans. Jaak Panksepp's Affective Neuroscience sharply delineates seven basic subcortical neural systems corresponding to the full range of human emotions. First of all, this is basic science and I accept his theory fully. This is good science. On the other hand, this allows me to conjecture that Life Core of an individual, after death is not, without similar machinery, unable to feel passions at all. But I do have faith that the Four-Sphere Theory contains ubiquitous purely electromagnetic constructions that have similar and compatible functions, and the Life Core animates such 'immaterial' bodies and regains ability for passions. I have no interest in proving their existence. Their existence only matters before birth and after death, and I can accept them on pure faith. Panksepp's research necessarily modifies the views held not only by Plato but also Rene Descartes, and sharply refines Darwin's original thoughts about evolution of conscience and such. Now you might have serious doubts about existence of electromagnetic bodies capable of having similar functions to the physical human brain. I do not care about your doubts. My Life Core theory respects Panksepp and allows possibility of retaining passions after death.
