

JOE BIDEN IS MAKING A BAD CALL ON CHINA

Joe Biden is beginning rivalry language of us-or-them with China that will fatally hurt the United States. In reality we want dominance not China. History makes clear that this is the case. Biden says China does not want coexistence but dominance and we'll thwart their ambitions. He's not just wrong but so wrong that we're going to be fatally hurt in the end.

China is not Soviet Union. China is what it was three thousand years ago with minor changes. It is an Old Empire and it is pretty organic. China will not seek dominance, certainly not over Western nations because it's not in Chinese DNA. It will seek to produce an organic unity for all of Asia with non-military means and keep United States power under check in Asia. That's at least what would be natural for China because there are various reasons to unify Asian economies and everyone will read Biden as saying "America wants Dominance. America wants Dominance. America wants Dominance. Beep. Beep. America wants Dominance." Their natural reaction will be to dig into defense and ensure they can prevent our Dominance of China and Asia. But that's the problem. We're attempting Soviet Union strategy wrongly on China. Soviet Union wanted explicit political influence on the world with an ideology that was not good enough and collapsed with our efforts. China cannot exactly be dominated in the same way because they have a reasonable economic model now and will gain in economic growth.

What we ought to do is mimic China and reduce our global domination military machinery and shore up life and values of America. Every social problem within America weakens us and no amount of military power will help. People assume that Chinese military is not strong enough to withstand all sorts of efforts from the West. Well this is a wrong direction for us.

I don't think we are seeking co-existence and we are seeking Dominance and that is very bad for America. We cannot actually afford to expend enough resources to win an all out war to dominate all of Asia right now. We won the Second World War with Germany mostly because we were untouched, lost only half a million, and Russia did the land war. It is foolish for us to be so aggressive. We need to shore up American Civilisation, reduce social problems like failure of marriages, single motherhood, loneliness, etc. first before we went around trying to take over the world.

Our economic growth is stuck at 2-2.5% so we ought to tread much more lightly. China is not Soviet Union at all. They are so big in population and so old that they are unable to change their mold very easily. They are an Old Empire, and they never were into expanding and dominating. That's more Roman Empire, and yes, more America than China. We're going to bleed ourselves to death with wanting to Dominate Asia. They will wear us down and our social problems are much more serious than our military defense.
