

NATURE WILL DOMINATE HUMAN INSTITUTIONS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I want to explain a simple principle here that applies to all human institutions. My focus is on institutions for larger populations, say more than around a thousand people. Smaller institutions can perhaps survive but they are not interesting to my purpose in this note.

The principle is that human beings are creatures of Nature, and we inherit genetic code that is not controlled by human beings. Our genetic code is naturally determined by our parents. My code is a complex mixture of the genetic code of Khondkar Miran Ahmed and Sadiqua Ferdause Ahmed, a Bengali man and a Bengali woman. I love them. My mother is in Bengal right now, and my father passed away around 2002. I buried his body wearing white Islamic clothing going into the grave myself and helping people lower his anointed body wrapped in white cotton clothing, and there were tens of thousands of people to see the burial. My father had died, and the mourning ceremonies were complex, and I had, for a while lost my footing in the world when I came back to San Francisco.

Now back to principle that I want to tell you about. The principle is that all men are created equal is true genetically, because genetic code in common, G_c is 99.9% of all white Americans, and all Bengalis and everyone else on Earth. Any genetic code is virtually indistinguishable from any other at conception. The differences are in the 0.1% range and that is close to identical.

And this is the truth, this equality of men and women. Every institution that is based on fundamental inequality will eventually disintegrate and be washed away by the force of truth.

Let me return to an organisation for $N > 1000$ people. That is a sufficiently large sample that given sufficient time, any organisation that defies truth about human nature, about the sorts of things that we human beings do out of deep mysterious nature within us, will obviously not survive for thousands of years. That is because will of individuals do not have sufficient truth to suppress natural human nature indefinitely. The N human beings and their progeny will eventually respond with sufficient force and annihilate the organisation. We cannot tolerate tyranny over our natures forever. We have the French Revolution; we have wars. It is fundamentally because we have not fully grasped what our human nature is that have led to all of this strife for the past twenty thousand years.

I say unto you that every organisation on Earth must recognise that all men and women are created equal, and stand on this truth across the globe for any of them to survive. Either they will be wise and do so voluntarily, or they will face destruction by internal and external stress.

There will never be escape from this fate, for human nature is beyond the control of the will of a few people.

You can try to fool people with words, seduce them into docility, for a period, and might have some success. But this does not change the the truth within their genes, and these strategies of deception will not function well with $N > 1000$. It is thus useless to try, certainly unwise.