

ZULF ATTEMPTS TO EXPLAIN WHAT I CAN DELIVER

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

Stanford, I see that Professor Daniel Stroock is positive about some of my mathematical exercises. You see, I am 49 now and what I think about is what I can actually deliver. I don't mean what I can deliver for Stanford, or Mathematics generally. I mean what I can deliver to anyone at all, the world, my beloved people the human race generally.

The homeless period of 2008 had taken a heavy toll on my physical health. And then a bad environment in Allen Texas with constant verbal abuse in the past decade. I won't be able to get into a normal rhythm and accomplish very much far out of my comfort zone.

My comfort zone is urban cosmopolitan environment. I can deliver Global Life Satisfaction in Mission, San Francisco. The plan would be to establish a couple of companies, one based on Quantitative Positive Psychology, and another for delivery of Meteor-Mongo web-mobile delivery to eight billion people at costs that are much less than cloud services. I won't go into details.

I have not been an academic from 2000-2021 although I have academic habits in a way since I am always studying, but I am working on my own and reading.

You see, I have industry experience in Finance, Technology, and Science, at senior levels between 1995-2008. So I don't think attempting to change what I know at 49 to become a pure academic will yield satisfaction to myself or you.

So I thought, why not give me a couple of doctorates in psychology, social science, physics, as I have enormously good pioneering results, and then get me a good setup in Mission San Francisco. A good pad. My money, $620 million, is blockaded by Bill Gates.

Then I can work on things with some Adjunct type position wherever, Stanford is good, but Berkeley is good as well or Harvard. Then I'll set up Skype or other things to have some collaboration, set up top tier teams – I am biased towards very good intellectuals. And I'll slowly deliver something good for my beloved people. There is another idea of Global Individual Debt.

I am eccentric, but not a bad cat. I like to do things a bit more English Victorian way than most people in San Francisco like but that's okay.
