

ZULF INTRODUCES A RADICAL NEW NOTION OF WHAT IS MAN?

Inspired by the beautiful and successful theory of integration introduced by Henri Lebesgue, and also inspired by Jean-Jacques Rousseau, who had attempted to redefine Man and what is Man in his day 1712-1778, time has come for Zulf, Zulfikar Moinuddin Ahmed, to redefine Man once again in 2021.

My work on Universal Human Moral Nature had shown that for every moral value, there is a strong invariance of the distribution. For example "Is violence against others justified"? You put 1 for never justified and 10 for alway. You get the distribution by just histogramming the answers from a population sample. It so happens that no matter where you sample from, the distribution is invariant. If you sample 1000 people from America or Belgium or India or China, the distribution is invariant modulo minor variation that is noise. Now mix from various places, still invariant.

This inspires me to redefine Man in every characteristic such as moral values as a Single Race, and then consider ethnicity to be a superficial colouring of ancestry and geography. This allows us to produce new individual notions of self that is less constrained by ethnicity. We want to free Man from his chains and bonds of ethnic tyranny once and for all!
