ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

So imagine a scene of two cops chatting in front of a brutally mutilated corpse of a murder victim.

"No one in history has seen such a gruesome, mutilated and mangled victim of a homicide," says Joe, lighting up a cigarette in a noir style.

"You got that right, Joe. I have been in this business for thirty years and this one looks about the worst I can imagine," says Paul.

"So Paul, do you think we're going to get a prize in Guinness Book of World Records? Amy wants a vacation, you know. She wants to leave town, and it would be nice if we got some sort of prize."

"Well, Joe, this certainly breaks some record. Yeah, you know Jen and I have been talking about some things. You know we could have a barbeque one of these weekends together. It would be nice for the kids too."

"Yeah, that's not a bad call. Let's take some more pics here. Mutilated beyond all imagination. Extraordinary."

1. THERE ARE ZERO "PROMINENT" EXCEPTIONS IN LAW

Neither in United States Law nor in United Nations Charter and any resolution passed ever will you find any exceptions to law made for "prominent" people. Where do people in United Nations and United States Government invent exceptions that do not exist in law? There are no such exceptions at all in law that can be legitimate. And yet, all these people working in these organisations say "Ah, the man is prominent". Why do you even work for these organisations if you have different laws in your head that you follow? Why don't you follow the things that people believe you are following, laws written down and read and worked out by effort?

2. I WANT THIS BILL GATES DEAD YOU HEAR ME?

Bill Gates crossed death penalty law in United States code and International code. I am American. I want the son of a bitch dead, you hear me?
