United States Government,

Why don't you declare that all men are equal except Purples and they are Superior Master Race in high Power. Then just make official policy that only Purples are Superior and all others are normal and not Master Race. Then require anyone who wants to declare that they are not yellow, white, brown, or black etc. to visit Washington D.C. and fill out all sorts of forms if they want to switch to being Purple.

The point is that it will remove racial strife without burdening the government from doing a lot of work. Then people like Bill Gates cannot use White Supremacy meta without resistance in high Power from government. You can also absorb all the Master Race meta for Purples only. You need to be careful of course that these things are then not problems again but Purples are Superior is good.
