

INVESTMENT MANAGERS OUGHT TO PUT $0.5 BILLION FOR GLOBAL LIFE SATISFACTION

Global Life Satisfaction is for eight billion service for precise fruits of Positive Psychology. Around the world in every nation and culture, Life Satisfaction is more important and explicitly sought by people. It's not just in the richest countries but everywhere on Earth. It is obvious that there are trillions in revenue in this space if there is a strong canonical service.

The fruits of Positive Psychology are quite a bit more extensive than is known to those not initiated into Positive Psychology but they are not yet distributed to eight billion. I have the technology engineering plans and the background to design and deliver by organising a company in San Francisco.

At the same time, I am Psychology-oriented and have great background in Finance and Science. I will not make errors that technology professionals regularly make when they are enamoured more of the technology than of the services. Life Satisfaction is subtle delicate matter of natural science. I am new to Positive Psychology but I am familiar with Martin Seligman, Ed Diener, and Robert Emmon's work. I believe I can get revenues in the hundreds of billions.

Fund managers who are willing to put around $0.5 billion into Global Life Satisfaction ought to put it into a Deutsche Bank account invested in TIPS and give me control of the account. I will offer 1.5% and 17% hedge fund rates for managing the fund and put together Global Life Satisfaction infrastructure.

I am American. I have Permanent Residency expiring in 2031, and not much travel will be necessary. I'll set up actual physical companies in San Francisco proper (not South San Francisco or Palo Alto).
