

GENERAL ADVICE TO EUROPEAN ANCESTRY RACIAL SUPREMACISTS REGARDING PROPAGANDA WAR WITH INDIANS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

It has come to my attention that certain European racial pride propaganda uses images of chimpanzees, bonobos, and gorillas to depict Indians. Now I personally am not offended, because this is a hands down loss for the European ancestry folks.

You see, when you invoke images of chimpanzees, bonobos, and gorillas and monkeys, you are trying to play a game where you are suggesting that your counterparty or opponent is less evolved or less Civilised than yourself. But you are using evolutionary history to denigrate them.

The reason I don't mind is that I am of Indo-Persian ancestry and European Civilisation starting with Mycenaean Greece is far later than Indus Valley Civilisation which was already urban literate with complex religious forms and political history before Europe even exited the hunter gatherer stage.

Now we are much more enlightened and graceful and also subtle in our politics, so I personally never ever use pictures of chimpanzees and bonobos or gorillas against any European ancestry person. But in fact by having much later development out of hunter gatherer and forager states, your European ancestors are much closer to these sorts of earlier ancestry than my ancestors. So be careful with this line of attack, because that might lead to all people of Asians considering Europeans closer to chimpanzees and bonobos in the end if it backfires because European Civilisation is a late bloomer. Germany has about 3000 years but India has 4000 years etc. England does not even have 2000 year; it is more reasonable to say it has 1500 years since English language evolved out of Old German.

If you use chimpanzees, you are implicitly invoking 6 million years. You can't win against Asian Old Civilisation this way. We had significant sophisticated Civilisations before Europe did.

What you could do is point out to some social difficulties in the recent times between 1300-2020. Do not even think of going back 6 million years. You will be trounced so badly that you will not even have any idea of who is your mother and who is your father etc.

If you're going to play a game, know what is your actual strength. You're not old enough in Civilisation to win on further away from chimpanzees, so don't play that game.

Or please do play that game, and have your ass handed to you.