

ZULF IS PLEASED DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR WANTS TO SECURE MY NATURAL RIGHTS

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

Zulf is quite impressed, so Department of Labour did read the preamble to the US Declaration where it says 'to secure these rights' governments are formed among men. This is joyous news. I always am amazed at how the Founders found some principles that held together a multi-ethnic classical liberal Republic enough to succeed in the globe with Industrial Revolution that outshone England's. This was a great triumph of political ideas that were virtually never tested before. And the rest of US Government will come to see the wisdom of the US Declaration preamble too.

You see, you look at the political genius from Machiavelli, and there is no mention of purpose of government at all. For centuries, the purpose of government simply never was an issue because tribes formed kingdoms in Europe after the Fall of Rome. Rome was a Republic and Empire and there was Plato before but American founders went much further. "All men are created equal with Natural Rights endowed by Nature and not by others" is a principle of politics that was so stunning, so original, and yet so right that nothing like it has ever existed before at all, either in the East or West. You look at all these wanna-be Global Despots like Bill Gates and you have to marvel at how advanced and sophisticated the Founders of America were compared to these cats. They don't have enough insight or intellect to even grasp the depth of wisdom encoded in the US Declaration preamble. Now they are not trivial; the principles came out of rumination of many wars, strife, death and bloodshed in Europe that was clear to the Founders that they took upon themselves to avoid in the New World. It's a work of stunning genius. It's obviously not easy to grasp for unsophisticated riffraff like Bill Gates who is not particularly gifted in matter of human nature. In fact its highly nontrivial. It's quite spectacular, and unfortunately we Americans tend to forget to appreciate how special these are because we're used to hearing it and not examining it deeply in context. Security of Natural Rights gave the people a peace of mind that is easy to forget when we are paying so much taxes. But US Government officials should never forget that this is indeed the purpose of our government rather than ensuring that the government collects taxes so these Bill Gates types can do what they want with the government's money. Those sorts of corruptions are quite suicidal for our Nation. We are not a tribal kingdom, so we don't have some of the ordinary ra ra. We are a vast Republic that is multi-ethnic, and our principles are much more subtle than the Throne and Altar setup of Europe's Kingdoms. Never be confused, however; our principles are harder but they will lead to greater flourishing in the long run. You can trust me on it. You can decide to disbelieve me but vast Republics that are highly successful exist around the universe. They are far more Civilised and pleasant than Kingdoms, and can accomodate literally billions of people even hundreds of billions flawlessly.

Principles that allow these things are not just those that our Founders found. There are more. This will be clear over time.
