

ZULF IS UNIMPRESSED WITH WHITE AMERICAN JUDGMENT

When I was little, my father had some English friends from his boyhood. One of them, Michael, was a commercial pilot. And he would visit my father once in a while. I was very little and he never failed to buy some Lego toys or some such things for us when he visited. I had a good impression of English judgment. Michael was obviously a world traveller and was refined and my father and he were quite close and kept their relationship alive over many decades.

I have had some good friends in America too, and ethnicity never particularly mattered to me. But the American public sentiment and judgment is just atrocious. Many white Americans adore Bill Gates. This is one of the most horrible awful savage beasts that the world has ever produced. American White people seem to me to never miss an opportunity to fall in love with and give their kindness and adoration to the worst horrible disgusting cunts the world ever produces. This man Bill Gates is so horrible, he does not even belong in Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness – which incidentally is absolutely gorgeous writing despite the disturbing nature of the events. Anyway this man is not a nineteenth century slave trader type, this Bill Gates. He does not even belong with the Ostrogoths, or the Ancient Hebrews. The jealous God telling everyone to kill all man woman and child and all that of Deuteronomy is far too tame for this one. And American white people are melting with "Isn't he a sweetheart? How wonderful he is. How angelic."