

HIGH LIKELIHOOD OF MASSIVE SUCCESS OF GLOBAL LIFE SATISFACTION

Psychology had focused on pathology since the Second World War to around 1998 with Martin Seligman's Presidency of American Psychological Association. The past two decades had seen a great development of Positive Psychology and some great empirical results.

Now we are in the world of Covid-19 and across the world private individual life is disrupted. Massive technological addressing of Positive Psychology of Individuals will have significant success and revenue per annum of perhaps $0.1-1 trillion per annum in scale.

The technology for massive delivery exists and I have some plans for refining this. We need Mesos running on large clusters of thousands of server nodes. Twitter has Mesos variants on 80,000 nodes already so there is no technology barrier here.

Then we need to set up quantitative management of Positive Psychology (Life Satisfaction enhancing) products and services at the individual level. I have been sketching out design for this infrastructure for many years now. The correct choice for technology is MongoDB for backend high volume data analysis and Meteor for component development.

In essence all these sorts of applications amount to JSON document management in a centralised MongoDB cloud and I/O using efficient Meteor code. Reliable massive eight billion service is Nginx running on high end hardware server clusters. Ordinary cloud services are inappropriate since they use commodity hardware and are too expensive.

The productive work is management of positive psychology in a large statistical model with ability to gain feedback. Positive Psychology itself will have a far reaching refinement in development as a Science in the process since in psychology only large sample measurements provide precision of scientific concepts much more than biology and medicine. Psychological concepts are very difficult to disentangle without large sample measurements since most fundamental theories are too speculative.

In other words the process of massive service is the optimal path for development of Positive Psychology as Science.

I want to do this pioneering work myself. I am looking for $0.5 billion investment into this arena and I will manage the money myself.

1. MISSION SAN FRANCISCO WILL BE OUR HOME

I am superstitious in a way. Even though I moved to San Francisco after 9/11 from New York with a biotech scientist job, I came to realise that among all places of the world, San Francisco is my spiritual home. It was where United Nations first had its meetings.

Delegates of fifty nations met in San Francisco, California, USA, between 25 April and 26 June 1945 at the United Nations Conference on International Organization.

Date: July 18, 2021.

Working on the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, the Yalta Agreement, and amendments proposed by various governments, the Conference agreed upon the Charter of the United Nations and the Statute of the new International Court of Justice.

It was the place where American Psychological Association had meetings in 1998 for Positive Psychology under Martin Seligman's leadership. It is where I will settle till my death. It is my spiritual home.

Silicon Valley and Palo Alto are not it. I love San Francisco proper, and Mission District specifically. I have been trying to get my life in order so I can settle there permanently and work on Global Life Satisfaction as well as Global Individual Debt. It is the city that is most appropriate for Human Race level efforts.

All cities have special magical elements. There is something very special in my heart for Mission San Francisco. The whole world and all of human race seems different from there.
