

SOME PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS ABOUT MYSELF

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

I am 48, and single again in a strange situation where I have achieved success in the American Dream but am repressed by Bill Gates from realising that success. I am literally owed $120 million by D. E. Shaw & Co. and gifted $500 million by ECB and Madam Christine Lagarde and for some strange reason that no one can understand, Bill Gates, the criminal charlatan, can defy all governments in the world and UN Security Council and blockade payment of my money to me.

I am single, and I want a beautiful lover and a family in San Francisco. I am a Princeton Man with achievements that ensure that I will be remembered as an Immortal American Genius already. I am extremely successful. And yet I do not have my own place and living in a situation where my aunt denigrates me every day because there is no income and my mom is sick and dying in Bengal and I cannot help her.

Now you can say, "That Bill Gates is a cunt." That's not the problem. The problem is that US Government and UN Security Council are incompetent and that is the real reason for this bizarre situation unprecedented in the history of America and the world.

I have been talking to some ladies from Ukraine and Russia who are beautiful and could turn out to be just right. I lost Darina who was just wonderful and I would have married her and had children with her. But of course women don't want to hear about infinite waiting periods and problems at a young age.

I have been thinking lately about Romantic Love and Universal Self. Now I think there is something serious here in multiple directions, including Universal Self in understanding the Nature of Romantic Love. In fact even though Helen Fisher knew that Romantic Love's history is more than 4.4 million years, I made a concrete theory independently, and I am convinced that Romantic Love is far more important to the world than any Western Philosopher had considered seriously. In particular I am extremely interested in being the world's pioneer in establishing the centrality of Romantic Love in people's lives. And this matters now to me personally as well, since I am examining the potential of quite a few beautiful ladies for potential long term partnership in San Francisco.

First, I want to ensure that my ranked virtues are clear to the world.

This is the ranking from Martin Seligman's VIA-120 questionnaire. This is extremely interesting because the third ranked Honesty is one that I would have been quite proud to pronounce as I am extraordinarily proud of this Virtue of mine, that I am remarkably honest and much more than most people I have come across, and that is something that is of course valuable in romantic relationships and so it matters. But that's not the top ranked strength in the VIA-120.

	X1	Love	X.Humanity.

1. SPECIAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ROMANTIC LOVE

I am extremely glad to see that the top ranked strength for me is Love. I am starting to appreciate, after I am extremely satisfied that I did have closure on Four-Sphere Theory after a decade of effort, that I have few things weighing my conscience, and I have given my gratitude to Elizabeth K. Waltien my great benefactor and a truly great saintly woman, who had believed in me, and I did achieve the sort of thing that honours her.

And in the past decade I had evolved and gained confidence that the Human Race is a Single Race and it's not a random idealistic idea, but actually justifiably so from genetic analysis, based on G_c the genetic code in common is 99.9% of everyone's genetic code, that my Beloved People is the Human Race.

This is certainly a manifestation of my top ranked virtue of Love and I have further sought to support the US Declaration of Independence Preamble with genetic support and argument 'all men are created equal' which is highly nontrivial truth.

But now I feel that I am turning naturally toward Romantic Love because quite likely it is part of my nature, and partly because I realised that I have been a very good lover. Today a conversation convinced me of this when it became clear that I value love as the main entree and sex as a small side dish to be enjoyed. This was never unclear to me in life, and this is pleasing to me, that I was not ever confused about this in life. And that is interesting, because I was naturally aware that I would not ever have sex with a woman I did not love.

I am extremely interested in two issues, Romantic Love, and Universal Self, and I am looking at [1]. My views about both of these concepts have different roots from Arthur Aron and Jennifer Tomlinson but I am interested in this approach. I am not yet compelled that the right understanding has been reached in this circle of ideas. I am generally intuitively able to understand when I understand something, and here I am not sure yet. And I know that quite a lot is still not clear to me when that happens.

At some point there will be clarity in my mind of what is Universal Self, what is Romantic Love in its broader manifestation and what their interrelation is. And Arthur Aron and Jennifer Tomlinson I can sense are touching something here that is deep but I am not sure that they have the right answer yet. And that is what I am like. I really like answers that are right. I will have sleepless nights and obsessive days and years till I get it. Now you might say, "Well how will you establish Global Life Satisfaction if you will gaze at your navel for years worrying about abstruse things no one cares about?" That's not a big deal. If I can get the money from Madam Lagarde, I'll get something there. This is for me unexplored territory, imprecisely understood, vast frontier that is unknown.

2. SPECULATIONS: SEEKING, PLAY IN SELF?

I saw a paper of 1959 by White that introduced a concept of 'competence' since play and exploration were then not considered primary impulses. Since 1998 Panksepp's Affective Neuroscience described SEEKING and PLAY as primary emotional systems. This then leads to the question of Self-exploration as involving both, and this would lead to Romantic Love involving these as well. I like this because I have felt that Romantic Love is in some the forming of a Shared subjective reality that differs in particular ways from Social reality.
