

MEN AND WOMEN ACCORDING TO ZULF

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

In West the culture is absolutely irresponsible towards men. In reality men and women are both exquisitely delicate psychological beings. We have robustness of course, but just because we're robust does not mean that things don't break if people are being smashed on the pavement repeatedly for extended periods of time. It's barbaric beyond all conception.

I'll tell you that while it's true that women are delicate in some ways, such as women will be totally destroyed if she is not able to have a home where she is the matriarch after an age. Simple as that. A woman who is not the matriarch of her own household by the time she is 40-45 is a goner. That's part of women's evolution. She can be a good queen and nice and polite or a bitchy queen who abuses the butterflies in the garden or whatever but she better have her ownership and authority in her home by then. If this does not happen, she will have severe problems of every possible stripe.

Men are actually less resilient than women in many ways. I am not a tough guy physically, but some men are. All this claptrap about rugged individualism is fluff. Men have a complex evolution and need social respect to be healthy in the end.

West's problem is to produce a fiction of the playboy who can fuck around with 20 women and holding his freedom dear etc. This is such a harmful fiction I cannot even stop criticising it. No. Men need to be fathers; we need to disseminate our values to society. We are far more devastated with the wrong woman than women are with the wrong man. We are far more delicate and have far more pieces that are not as robust. We are destroyed far more easily than women because society seems to think it is okay to treat us roughly. That is just barbaric in the west. We are not Arnold Schwarzenegger's Terminator. We are not Robocop or Superman. We are much more sophisticated psychological beings being surrounded and blasted by propaganda that will reduce us to toy soldiers or cowboys or whatever. These are fictional. In reality we cannot have a good life in the end if we continue to pretend that we will have attachmentless fuck buddies with some women and that will be just great. That's an adolescent sex fantasy turned into cultural motif in the West. This is a total unmitigated disaster. Who the fuck wants to live in a world where the highest levels of civilisation are sitting in burning libraries of Alexandria while there is promotion of turning adolescent sexual fantasies into reality. Who thought this was a good idea? I am 48, and I am not amused. Let's kick the adolescent sex fantasists out of Western Leadership. What the fuck is wrong with this world?

1. OLDEST LIBRARIES OF THE WORLD ARE IN MIDDLE EAST AND NORTH AFRICA

I was just using 'Library of Alexandria' because it was ancient. So the 10 oldest great libraries of the world are all essentially from Middle East and North Africa.

---

Date: July 1, 2021.

None of them are in Europe [1]. I wasn't sure about this but it's clear. Europe inherited Great Public Library tradition from those of Mesopotamia and Egypt. Of course centuries later, Europe's libraries were quite spectacular but Europe did not invent them at all. They were theorised, implemented, maintained in Mesopotamia first, long before Myceneans even had any civilisation in Greece.

2. MY DIATRIBE CONTINUES

My mom is Eastern. She is now in her deathbed but no one in their right mind who wanted to live would ever have crossed her on her home on her maternal authority. She was a good mother for the sons, less for my sister who committed suicide in 2017. And my father died in 2002 if I remember correctly. Women have their authority over certain aspects of life in a home. In the East no one dreams of questioning this; that's what being a married woman means. In the west you have punk kids with no life experience with all sorts of rubbish ideas that they picked up from masturbation and not actual knowledge who are loud and want to sweep through the families across the world with their ideas of liberation. I feel like beating the shit out of these kids. What the fuck? Did you raise kids who went on to become great men and women who changed the world for the better repeatedly for hundreds of generation? You read what three Political Ideology For Dummies and attended some rowdy political session and suddenly you want people who built Civilisation over thousands of years pretty goddam successfully thank you very much to listen to your gibberish? Are you fucking out of your mind? You should speak when you are spoken to kiddo, and not play with your food! This is one of the problems of the West. Punk kiddos who don't know shit want to impose their doll's house on people who have been doing things for thousands of years while not using spelled words on mobile chat. Why don't you try that shit with your own life first, and then when you are totally destroyed, we'll take pity on you and visit the ashram or wherever you are still high on who knows what ok? Study more, have fewer programs for people who are much wiser than you are.

3. A LOT OF WESTERN WAR PROPAGANDA AGAINST EASTERN MEN STEM FROM LACK OF SOPHISTICATION

Eastern lines drawn for the woman's turf and man's turf are developed from a longer gestation of Civilisation than the West. These are part of the traditions of all Eastern cultures. Western people are not sophisticated enough to see them because West has developed political ideologies based on all manner of abstract principles, some of which work, others don't. But in West, man and woman's turf is never actually well defined. You see man crossing deep into woman's turf with hubris no Eastern man could contemplate; likewise no man in the East would tolerate a woman driving deep into a man's turf and walking all over him. He's retaliate harshly of course. But in the West, these things are not set all that clearly. It's not surprising because West is younger in Civilisation, and there are more wildness allowed.

An Eastern man knows when the boundary is being crossed and tip-toes out of those situations. You will not find higher physical domestic abuse in the East than West. That's not surprising at all. Rapes are higher in the West too. These things are not surprising in the least. Anti-Eastern propaganda is quite ignorant of these things. Eastern 'tradition' contains knowledge about people's boundaries.

The boundaries themselves are semi-natural. You cross a woman's boundary and you will not hear the end of it. She will scream, yell, break things, deny you sexual play, cause all manner of problems. In the East, men don't touch these easily. They find quick excuse to get the fuck out of there before she will call down the Furies on your ass. In the West, out of some strange sense of masochism, men literally will brave the storm and try to be macho about it. Poor sons of bitches do not stand a ghost of a chance of not being scarred by life. You see, a woman is a highly evolved biological creature with all manner of weapons for those who cross her boundaries. In the West, unsophisticated men with puerile ideas about their self-worth like morons trip the wires and pretend that they are great heroes. An Eastern man will wince even thinking about it and escape at high velocities. And then Eastern men are considered abusers of women in Western propaganda. It's amusing, most.

4. MALE AND FEMALE ROLES IN SOCIETY IS NOT THE ISSUE

I am not talking about restrictions of roles of women in any arena of professional life. I don't really care about any fake traditional roles. Women who love law should be lawyers and men who love cooking should be chefs. That's superficial claptrap. I am talking about far deeper issue. I am talking about men and women deciding to share their DNA and forming families and how they produce relationships that are healthy. In the West, there is not even awareness that there are boundaries of men and women that ought not be crossed at all. You have a chaos in the household when they are crossed. Sometimes there is domestic violence; much more often you have destroyed people and destroyed children. That's much more substantial than who got paid how much for getting a television anchor job. West keeps focusing on superficial aspects of life, economic and professional life, and pretending that this is serious. It's fluff. The deepest commitment men and women make to each other is of love and sharing DNA and rearing children, not who got paid how much and got promoted to high ranks of some organisation that sells frisbees. Are you kidding me?

5. WHY ARE RAPES SO MUCH HIGHER IN WEST THAN EASTERN COUNTRIES?

My explanation for this is that human being is a delicate sophisticated animal. For millions of years mothers and fathers had evolutionary adaptation to raising human children to young adulthood in Africa, and this continued on after dispersion 75,000 years ago. The adaptations are so intricate that we don't even know what they are yet. Fast forward to 20th century West and you have all sorts of horrid 'new world' of things which denigrate the evolutionary development of several million years because some intellectual idiots have decided that they have it all sussed out and then you have classical liberalism. Then society thinks it is even more clever than Nature herself and imposes all sorts of new mandates on what would be good and strain the biology of the human beings. Children do not get mother's love and care; they don't have a father who actually is present. They are too modern for it. They are rushing around chasing all sorts of careers and money and whatever. The children are neglected and do not develop according to the adaptations (which assumed parents' participation since there were no demands from corporate economy in Africa the adaptations have no idea what is happening). So you produce malformed human beings who are psychologically damaged beyond repair. They increase rapists. The solution is even more idiotic: look for 'rapist gene' and target all sorts of people for special monitoring, etc. It's a nightmare. Rape is not human nature; rape is the failure rate of social evolution of human beings whose biological machinery will do the following – it will induce Darwinian extinction and then all these too modern people will end up being extinct because raising kids properly is necessary for human race to continue.

REFERENCES

- [1] <https://www.oldest.org/culture/libraries/>