

CHINA HAS TO MAKE FIRM BOND WITH EUROPE

ZULFIKAR MOINUDDIN AHMED

China, I am 48 now and have enough experience with the world as a whole to be quite sure that it is my country, America, that contains the threats of war on Earth. It is not anyone in particular, but the nature of the American Democracy that they are vulnerable to war drums. And so I will advise China to always stay in strong friendship with Europe where people do not want any wars. For all matters of war and peace, make joint diplomatic statements with Europe.

American discourse is from Second World War. "Our allies in Europe" is habitual. You need to change that in various ways if you want a serious threat of American wars in China to recede. It seems roundabout. Shouldn't China worry about the current geopolitical reality?

No. You should understand that Europeans are not enthusiastic about a war with China, Hot or Cold. But Americans assume that Europeans will go along with whatever America does. You need therefore to be in lockstep with Europeans and agree on unacceptability of new wars and then deal with Washington with Europeans. That will reduce enthusiasm for wars in my country.
