

ZULF'S FINE DIVISION OF ETHNICITY MATTERS AROUND 15% AND DOES NOT MATTER AROUND 85%

Zulf has been thinking about how much ethnicity ought to matter for everyone in the world. The conclusion will be that Ethnicity Matters around 15% and Does not Matter 85%. That I think is just right.

Let me elaborate. There are several streams that go into this public decision of Zulf. You may or may not know but in Zulf's word, Zulf is the final arbiter of Right and Wrong in all things of the Universe. Now I do not like the idea of exactly imposing my final decision on my Beloved People the Human Race because my world is my world and why should I give away my precious jewels to the crowds for free? And besides, I agree with the principle of legitimate authority of a Great Republic of Humanity producing coercive laws, which does not exist yet. So I do accept the shabbier National Governments' rights in a queasy provisional sort of way. They are not legitimate in Zulf's world, but they are shabby sorts of attempts, highly flawed but better than total lawlessness. They're not very good at all; they leave me unsatisfied and I am not impressed by them but they are rudimentary and better I guess than nothing. You know, these little Nation States like United States of America. So flawed, so far from perfection, but I do accept their legitimacy after a great deal of pangs of conscience, with a sigh and a well I guess we have to accept this paltry rudimentary primitive state of the Human Race, the hapless human race without a Great Republic of Humanity, something good and solid. Otherwise you'd have even more murders, rapes, and insecurity. Their handling of Covid was miserable, but at least we're still not extinct even with the grand incompetence of these little Nation States.

Anyway, let's go back to my 15% and 85%. Well first there is a quantitative figure. I have shown that total variation of moral values in Human Nature has 6.5-9.5% explained by ethnicity. That gives a quantitative sort of indicator. I say, well moral values are part of the story, so let's say there are some other parts to the story, whatever they might be and guesstimate 7.5% is some middle ground, double it to cover other things, that's 15%.

Certainly you're an idiot if you made this 80% because then you make a number of grave mistakes. First, you assume that your ethnic cousins are just like your brother, sister, mommy, daddy etc. But you don't understand that there plenty of people in your own ethnicity who will rip you off of all your things, slash your throat, and leave you dead right on the side of the highway without a second thought. That's right your own ethnicity has people who will not actually love you like their own siblings and consider you prey for their malevolent and evil criminal intentions, and when you die they will laugh and say stupid fuck deserved to die, not understanding how special you are to the world, the profoundness of your purpose, the importance of your existence, and how all the stars, sun and the galaxies have known that you had to be here and do things that you do against the uncomprehending masses of people who don't really understand and so on.

You are an idiot if you think that shared ethnicity will force anyone to appreciate you at all. It won't. Those who might appreciate you, and therefore are intrinsically dear to your heart, are varied in their ethnicity, and you are a fool to consider ethnicity more than 15% important for this reason.

1. MOST COUNTRIES OF THE WORLD ARE NOT LESS SAFE THAN AMERICA

It is a prejudice that has been cultivated in America that the rest of the world is more filled with crime than America. In fact Rape Rates are highest in Europe and America and lowest in Asia, and it is white people who over-represent rapes, not by a lot in absolute scale but in America, it's about 15-20 times higher than in Japan or India. Most parts of the world are not less safe than America but you do need to carefully look at the crime statistics which are available online for free.

2. IT IS DEFINITELY FALSE THAT PEOPLE WHO WILL APPRECIATE YOU
MOST ARE FROM YOUR OWN ETHNICITY

The woman who appreciated my talents most was my teacher Elizabeth Kennelly Waltien who was Irish married to a German chemist. She was Catholic and she was not Bengali-Persian. I have never found anyone else in my 48 years who appreciated me and my potential and talents more, not among Bengalis and Persians either. So I know this quite clearly. My lovers had been Argentine-American, Danish, Southern African-American from Louisiana, others from other ethnicities than my own. So for me this is not theory; its truth is clear as day.

3. DO NOT REDUCE ETHNIC IMPORTANCE TOO LOW

Ethnicity includes appreciation for your ancestral culture, so I do not recommend much lower than 15% importance. You do gain some good strength from your ancestral cultural heritage that you need for psychic health. Ethnic pride is worth around 15%, to appreciate the greatness of your ancestral achievements, that you carry their genes. That's good. But not more than 15% is reasonable. Don't make this into your life and march around with placards. You can do much better in life without going overboard.
