

WHY THERE IS NO STATE OF THE WORLD WHERE I WILL EVER CONSIDER BILL GATES SUPERIOR TO ME

You know if I were Muslim, which I am not, it would be easy enough to declare that Allah is highest, and only those who conform to various edicts of Islam can be higher, and so Bill Gates, not being Muslim, is not higher than me, since being a Muslim I am in the path of God, and so I am closer to Divine than Bill Gates and so Bill Gates is not superior to me.

This line of reasoning is not strange; it is old and quite popular among Muslims and Christians and many other religious people.

Now what is strange is that I am not Muslim, and yet my reasoning is remarkably similar with some minor differences. I say Bill Gates' Virtues are not good; he does not support Universal Natural Rights, his intellectual level is not as good, and he is criminal in his action so he is inferior to me. I don't appeal to a particular Divine Order of a God but I use remarkably parallel reasoning. I say higher universal ideals are better; I say Virtuous Character is better; and after some examination come to the conclusion that Bill Gate is inferior to me as a man.

1. THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS SUPERIORITY BY ETHNICITY

Ethnicity has a total effect of 6.5-9.5% of human moral nature. Therefore Ethnicity cannot determine superiority of anyone over another. I consider any man (or woman) of any ethnicity to be a total numbskull idiot if they think a person can be superior to another based on ethnicity. No such thing is remotely possible. Superiority or inferiority of people is determined by subtler things of the Soul, of Character, in their Virtues and deeds and actions and thought, not in ethnicity.

Those people who believe that ethnicity induces any superiority are idiots, inferior in intellect.
